News Network envisions a stable nation, where citizens are aware of their rights, enjoy freedom of expression, live with dignity and enjoy gender equality and where the media is free.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The projects implemented by News Network in 2014 were supported by The United Nations Democracy Fund (UNDEF), Janata Bank Limited, Czech Republic Development Cooperation, Taiwan Foundation for Democracy (TFD), Anontex Trust Foundation and the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organisation (UNESCO).

This year News (2014) Network signed a new project agreement with the United Nations Democracy Fund (UNDEF). The UN organization is supporting the project 'Rural Media Development Programme for Promoting Democracy and Human Rights' that will be implemented in several districts of Bangladesh. The project is first of its kind aimed at improving the capacity of rural media and CSOs to make people aware about rights-based issues and how to defend those.

In 2014, three different projects were completed successfully in time. Those are Czech Republic Development Cooperation funded project 'Sensitization Program for Journalists to Combat

Gender Based Violence'; TFD supported 'Professional Safety of Journalists' and UNESCO funded 'Programme for Understanding Right to Information for Accurate and Fair Journalism'.

News Network, for the first time, received a Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) fund from Janata Bank limited, a state-owned bank of Bangladesh. The fund was meant for imparting training to young women( university students) under 'Women Journalists Development Programme'. This is about to be completed. Anontex Trust Foundation, a Bangladeshi non-profit organisation also provided financial support to the project. During the reporting period News Network collaborated with The Media Project , a US-based organization and UK-based Thomson Reuter Foundation to organise their two different media development activities in Dhaka.

Total grant amount of BDT 8,999,803 (USD 116,881) were received from the donors and at the year end the expenditure stood at BDT 3,355,563 (USD 43,579).

2. MAJOR ACTIVITIES OF THE YEAR

- ❑ Fellowship on journalism for young women graduates
- ❑ Development activities for rural journalists and CSOs for promoting democracy and human rights
- ❑ To sensitise media people to combat gender-based violence
- ❑ Workshops for journalists on Understanding RTI
- ❑ Promoting professional safety of journalists

3. PROGRESS OF THE ACTIVITIES

❑ Fellowship on journalism for young women

For the past 17 years News Network has been providing six-to-nine month journalism fellowship to young women, to encourage them to choose journalism as their profession and acquire necessary skills. Till 2014 a good number of donor agencies, international organizations and missions supported News Network to continue the initiative. This has inspired many young women to take up journalism as a profession and thus the number of women journalists has increased Bangladesh. It may be mentioned that women journalists do still lag behind in capacity and number in the country's male-dominated media in Bangladesh. Women account for only 5 percent of total journalists in the country. And, most of them are based in big cities like Dhaka and Chittagong.

In the reporting year, News Network received CSR funds from the Janata Bank Limited, one of the large state owned banks of Bangladesh to continue the fellowship programme. Anontex Foundation, a Bangladeshi non-profit organisation also came forward to support the project.

Zaglu Alam Chowdhury, former Chief Editor of Bangladesh Sangbad Sangstha (BSS) interviews women graduates for a journalism fellowship at News Network office in Dhaka on 6 July 2014.

With the assistance from Janata Bank and Anontex Foundation, News Network awarded 15 young women a six-month fellowship. It includes 3 months of in-house training and 3 months of internship in major media houses. The project is yet to be completed.

■ Development activities for rural media people to promote democracy and human rights

This new programme on promotion of democracy and protection of human rights, undertaken with the assistance from UNDEF, was launched in December 2014. The project will cover 12 districts of the country. It is focused on rural areas, where people are less aware of their rights.

UNDEF

The United Nations
Democracy Fund

Violence and violation of human rights issues are reportedly higher in rural areas than in urban society. The activities are expected to get momentum in early 2015. Major activities of the project it are to improve the media and civil society organisations' ability in rural areas to report on democracy and human rights issues and thereby raising public awareness of their rights.

A participant of a workshop on professional safety of journalists held in Khulna City narrates his experiences about an attack on him on a news assignment. The programme was held on 17-18 September 2014, supported by Taiwan Foundation for Democracy

❑ Workshop on professional safety of journalists

Attacks and threats on journalists have increased in recent years. Several journalists were killed and hundreds of them were attacked and injured. Many received threats on their life. International media rights groups have ranked Bangladesh as a dangerous place to work for journalists. To face the challenges News Network has launched a programme on professional safety of journalists. TFD came forward to support the initiative. By this time it has organised

The workshop was held at Khulna city, a south-west divisional headquarters, one of the danger zones for journalists in the country. Twenty local journalists, working for print and electronic media participated in the workshop.

Participants were highly satisfied with the workshop. They found it effective and useful for understanding their professional safety. News Network will keep the initiative going.

Farid Hossain, former Bureau Chief of Associated Press in Dhaka conducts a session at a two-day sensitization workshop for journalists on combating gender based violence in Brahmanbaria held on 24 -25 June 2014.

❑ Sensitize media people to combat gender-based violence

The activities were funded by the Czech Republic Development Cooperation. Three different workshops were organised to sensitise and build capacity of 60 young journalists. The workshops were held in Dhaka, Rajshahi and Brahmanbaria.

Participants and guests pose for a group photo after of a two day sensitization workshop held in Dhaka city for journalists on gender based violence on June 21-22, 2015.

Objective of the programme was to reduce gender-based violence (GBV) against girl children and young women. In Bangladesh society GBV is one of the major barriers for women empowerment. Most women are victims of such violence. But due to insecurity they don't disclose the incidents to other. So, many serious incidents go unreported. Here, journalists can play an important role to highlight the issues in public for greater interest of the society.

On 29 September 2014, Miloslav STAŠEK, Ambassador of the Czech Republic to Bangladesh, India, Sri Lanka, Maldives, Nepal and Bhutan visited News Network Office at Dhanmondi, Dhaka. Shahiduzzaman Editor and CEO of News Network presenting a Crest to Ambassador Mr. STAŠEK.

In the picture Amena Khatun, Assistant Professor, Mass Communication and Journalism Department, Rajshahi University conducts a session. The programme was undertaken with the assistance from UNESCO.

❑ Workshop for journalists on Understanding RTI for Accurate and Fair Journalism

The activity supported by UNESCO has been completed successfully. With the assistance five workshops were organized in five divisional headquarters. Those were: Sylhet, Rajshahi, Khulna, Barisal and Chittagong. A total of 90 journalists, working for main stream media participated.

The objectives of it were to give better understanding to the journalists on the Right to information Act, importance of accuracy of information and promoting fair journalism. The focus was particularly on how journalists can use the act for accurate and fair reporting.

All the workshops were interactive and participatory. The participant journalists found the workshops useful and effective. It improved their capacity to deliver better reports with accuracy of information.

Journalists at a workshop on RTI are seen doing group work in Rajshahi city on 22-23 February 2014.

❑ Support to international organisations

In 2014, News Network provided local support to two international organizations. They are UK-based Thomson Reuter Foundation and USA-based The Media Project. The Media Project arranged a seminar with the media people on 'Key Challenges for Media Freedom in Bangladesh' and Thomson Reuters Foundation organized a journalists training programme in Dhaka .

Thomson Reuters Foundation's five days General Training Course for young journalist ended on 21 February in Dhaka. 12 Journalists from different media houses are participating in the course. News Network locally coordinated the programme. Internationally reputed trainers Lisa Essex and Andrew Dobbie conducted the training.
